

 National Aeronautical Laboratory	Documentation Sheet	Document Classification RESTRICTED
Title : ACOUSTIC DUCT DESIGN FOR ATTENUATION OF FLOW UNSTEADINESS IN NAL 1.2M TUNNEL	Document No. PD EA 9118 Date of issue: October 91
Author(s) : K S Desikan	Contents 20 pages Text 11 Figs. 9
Division : EXPERIMENTAL AERODYNAMICS	No. of copies: 30
External participation :	NAL Project No. EA-8-313
Sponsor :	Sponsor's Project No.
Approval : Head, Experimental Aerodynamics Division	324 OR Remarks :
Keywords : Flow Unsteadiness, Attenuation, Multi-pass Duct, Wind Tunnel R
Abstract : Unsteady pressure measurements in the NAL 1.2m trisonic wind tunnel indicated that levels of test section flow unsteadiness are relatively higher as compared to similar tunnels. Such high pressure fluctuations are not acceptable and therefore to be attenuated. Acoustic duct as an insert to the settling chamber has been designed and the details of construction and anticipated performance are presented.		